HERE IS THE PROOF. Mr. MAYOR! Mayor Boody wanted "proof" that the scalth officials of Brooklyn had left thirty-four persons, men, women and children, for five or six days unsupplied with food to a quarantined building on Prospect street, and had uniawfully pre-vented outside fielp from reaching them, before he "expressed an opinion" on their conduct. The facts had been made public, and were notorious, when the Mayor stickled for this proof. They had been exposed in the press and not dealed. The neigh bors of the sufferers and nearly all the people of Brooklyn knew of the city's shame. It was Mayor Boody's duty to at once investigate these notorious facts and to find out what explanations of excuses the inculpated officers could offe for their diagraceful action. When near Fort Laramie the train separated, about twenty wagons going to the fort and the remainder of the train going to other points West. Young Edwards was with those going to the fort, and when within less than two miles of their destination they were surprised by the Indians. Wholly unprepared for the attack, it was an easy matter for the Indians to kill the men and plunder the train. Edwards was using his revolver to the best advantage, when an arrow struck his arm and, passing through the flesh, arm and, passing through the flesh, arm and, passing through the flesh, this pony was shot and fell upon him, and an indian took his scalp. Unconductions followed.

When consciousness returned he found himself lying on the ground, face downward, and the pony lying upon him. He raised his head and looked around. Another man was lying near him, with the blood still flowing from his scalpless head.

He wondered if his head was in the Barnet must have been dreaming of scene, for in the course of an hour but one street car passed through the thoroughfare.
